Tips To Boost Your Health as You Age

Many factors can influence healthy aging. While some of these factors, such as genetics, are not within our control, research shows there are steps you can take to help manage your health as you age. Even making small changes in your daily life can help you live longer and better.

Try these tips to get started:

-  Get moving - try gardening, biking, or walking.
-  Choose healthy foods rich in nutrients.
-  Manage stress- try yoga or keep a journal.
-  Learn something new - take a class or join a club.
-  Go to the doctor regularly.
-  Connect with family and friends.

HOW TO GET IN TOUCH WITH THE ADRC

As we start another new year, the ADRC wants to remind our consumers the best way to access the wonderful resources we have. We want to always be available to our consumers during their times of questions and need for information. Our office is open Monday through Friday from 8:00 AM to 4:30 PM for calls and walk-ins.

CONTACT US

Calling our office - When consumers call our office, every call is answered by ADRC staff. We will ensure that you are directed to the correct staff or resource that you need. You can contact us at (760)332-3213.

Walk-ins - When consumers come to our office, just like with a phone call, our trained staff will ensure you are able to either meet with available staff and help connect you with appropriate resources. You can find us located at 321 Wake Ave. El Centro, CA 92243.

7 TIPS TO KEEP YOUR NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION

Making New Year's resolutions is a yearly tradition for many people. Yet, some of us fall short of reaching our goals. Below are seven tips to help you make and stick to your New Year's resolutions. By following these suggestions, UC Davis Health experts say you can set yourself up for success.

1. Be picky about your resolutions

We may want to lose weight, eat more vegetables, volunteer more, quit smoking and spend more time with family. But experts say that's too many goals to set for a New Year's resolution. Pick one, maybe two things you'd like to focus on and go all in. This sets you up to achieve specific goals instead of feeling like a failure for hitting none of them.

2. Plan your resolution

It's best to plan for your goal. Think through how you want to accomplish your resolution and how long it might take to reach your goal. For example, if your resolution is to quit smoking, research how long it takes an average person to kick the habit and the possible setbacks to expect. Proper planning will help ensure you can see it through to the end.

3. Set very specific goals

Many of us will set a New Year's resolution like "exercise more." But what does that really mean? Instead, you should be detailed in your resolution. It could be "exercise 30 minutes daily." This gives you a measurable goal to reach each day that you can check off your list. It will help you feel more accomplished.

4. Don't take on too much

Start small. Avoid setting an overly high expectation of yourself. If you'd like to lose weight, pick a small but realistic weight loss goal. Maybe that's 10 pounds in two months. Once you reach that goal, you can think about losing another 5-8 pounds. Setting small goals can help you achieve big results.

5. Choose a new resolution

Avoid picking a goal that you've tried in the past but failed. You may set yourself up to fall into the same pitfalls that stopped you previously. Instead, pick something different where you can set up a better path to success. Or maybe you can modify a previous goal if that's something you still want to accomplish.

6. Identify accountability partners for support

Lean on people – whether it's a friend to keep your exercise resolution on track, or a spouse to help with healthier eating habits. We function better with community around us, motivating and reminding us why we chose that New Year's resolution in the first place.

7. Give your resolution time to become a habit

New routines don't just become habit overnight. A 2009 study found that on average, it takes 66 days to form a new habit. Be patient with yourself. If you have minor setbacks or don't hit your goal one week, pick it back up the next week. Just keep working at your goal and eventually it can become second nature.

Tasty Tomato Tart

This easy weeknight dinner is packed with lycopene and vitamin C to boost vision health and add to senior nutrition. It's similar enough to pizza that even picky eaters will try it — but it's a total showstopper with fresh, colorful ingredients.

Ingredients:

- 1 sheet frozen puff pastry, thawed
- 1 onion, thinly sliced
- 1 teaspoon olive oil
- 2-3 large tomatoes (multiple colors make a beautiful tart, but red works just as well)
- 1 cup of your favorite cheese (such as blue cheese, mozzarella, feta, or Parmesan)
- 1 tablespoon Italian seasoning, or chopped fresh herbs like basil and oregano

Instructions

1. Preheat the oven to 425 F and line a baking sheet with parchment paper or nonstick aluminum foil.
2. Stretch out the puff pastry on the lined baking sheet. With a fork, poke small holes along the bottom.
3. Add onions and olive oil to a skillet over medium heat. Sauté, stirring frequently, until soft — about 5 minutes.
4. Sprinkle cooked onions over the pastry dough, then top with tomato slices so they don't overlap. Sprinkle with cheese and half of your seasoning or herbs. Season with salt (or salt replacement, if you're avoiding sodium) and pepper to your tastes.
5. Bake for 25 minutes until the crust is golden. Sprinkle with the remaining herbs, cut into squares, and enjoy!
